June 1979

GRANT RECEIVES AWARD

Dr. Edward Donald Grant of Baton Rouge, Louisiana, was the recipient of his community's Golden Deeds Award for 1978. The honor was presented to acknowledge Dr. Grant's many years of public service to the state of Louisiana and the city of Baton Rouge.

Dr. Grant came to the United States from Scotland as a boy of eleven, in the year 1909. Accompanied by his older brother, the pair found their way to Texas where they lived with an aunt. Dr. Grant attended Austin College, earned a commission in the Army, and became an American citizen.

Many years later, in 1952, the Governor of Louisiana, Robert Kennon, brought Grant to Baton Rouge to become Director of State Institutions, a job which encompassed the administration of the state's hospitals, correctional schools, and prisons. His six-year tenure in this job brought many reforms and improvements, and under his supervision, many positive "firsts" were accomplished for the underprivileged, the hospital and prison inmates, and other minorities.

Leaving state administration in 1958, Dr. Grant entered the private sector to become President of Grant Chemicals, Chairman of the Board of the Grant-Lear Corporation, and an executive of Gramox Chemicals, Inc. As if his involvement in these ventures were not enough to occupy his time, Dr. Grant continued to serve the Presbyterian Church as a Board Member for thirteen years, work eighteen years as Executive Secretary of the Board of Christian Education, and serve as Moderator of its highest council, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S., in 1962-63.

More recently, Dr. Grant has become involved in the organization, "Make Today Count" -- a group of people with cancer dedicating their time and efforts to helping others who are dealing with their common illness.

It is with a great deal of pride that we Americans of Scottish ancestry, can look to men such as Dr. Grant whose individual initiative, faith, and perseverance have been a credit to their heritage and their chosen home.

DR. EDWARD DONALD GRANT
BATON ROUGE, LOUISIANA

FROM THE EDITOR

Since the last issue of CRAIGELLACHIE, I have received letters from Grants in Great Britain, Australia, and New Zealand. Future issues of the newsletter will include information which they have been kind enough to furnish. More complimentary copies of the newsletter are being sent with the hope that the recipients will respond and share their experiences and family histories with their American cousins.

FROM THE EDITOR

Speaking of American cousins, I am sure our Conveners join with me to wish all Grants, Mores, and members of the Society a very enjoyable summer season. We hope you will take part in Scottish festivals in your area and help the Society grow by soliciting membership among your friends and relatives in North America.

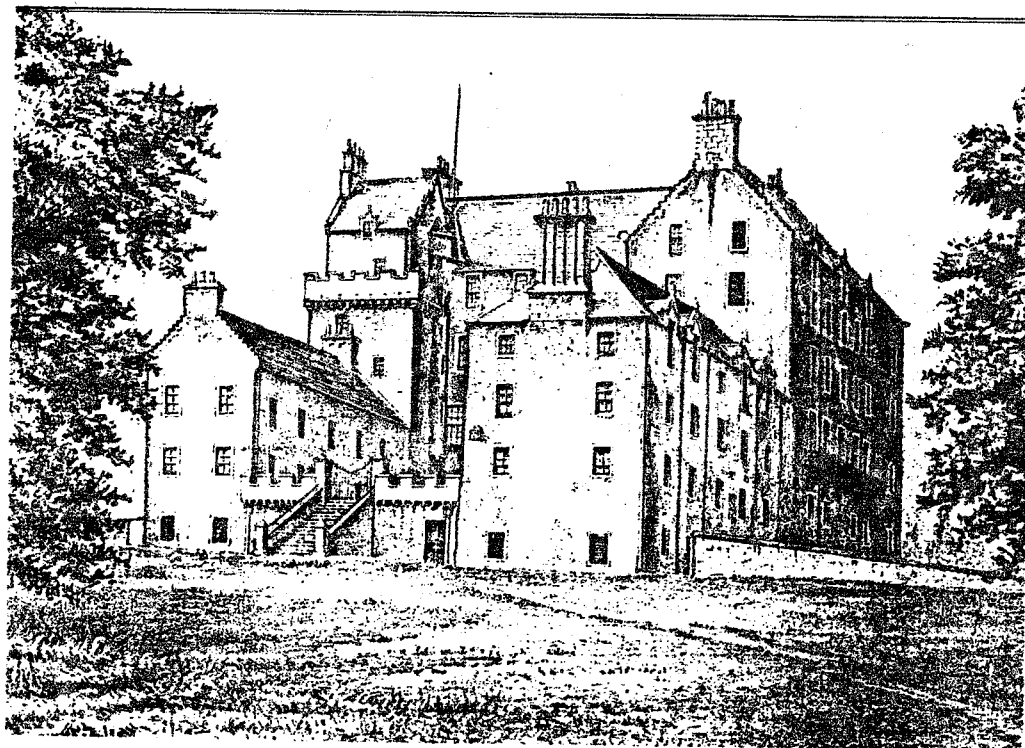

Lord Strathspey, in a recent letter, assures me that his book is coming along nicely. We all look forward to its publication soon. More details on this in upcoming issues!

To Mrs. Roy Merrill of the Clan McLean Society, I send along my thanks for the wonderful articles and picture of Dr. Edward Donald Grant.

Also, very special thanks go to my new corresponding friends, Rear Admiral John Grant and Major Alexander Ludovick Grant, in England, The Right Reverend Bishop James A. Grant, in Australia, and Mr. Charles R. Grant, New Zealand. Their interest and enthusiasm is most welcome.

I hope to see many of you at Grandfather Mountain next month. Stand fast!

--- Hank

IMPORTANT NOTICE

DUES ARE DUE!

Clan Grant Society dues for the year 1979 are due now. Now that tax time is over and the kiddies have had their new Easter outfits, and just before you take off for your extended vacation in the mountains or at the beach, please forward your check for $15.00 to our new treasurer, John C. Grant, so the Society can prosper during this eventful year. This year's dues are retroactive to the beginning of our fiscal year, March 1. Make checks payable to the Clan Grant Society, and mail them as soon as possible to the following address:

Mr. John C. Grant, Treasurer
5543 Joeclay Drive
Stone Mountain, Georgia 30088

Contributions in excess of $15.00 will be gratefully accepted. Delinquent accounts will be referred to Seumas Mor's Virginia Highlanders for collection.

Please help us preserve our Scottish heritage by forwarding your check promptly. Thanks.

MEMBERSHIP COORDINATOR NAMED

Shirley Grant Smith of West Chester, Pennsylvania, has volunteered to serve the Society as membership coordinator. Prior to the Colonial Games, in Delaware, Mrs. Smith sent out 400 letters to prospective new members. We are all anxious to find out the results of this prodigious effort. With enthusiasm like this, how can we go wrong? Please forward information on potential new members to Mrs. Smith, at the following address: 1207 Cavalier Lane, West Chester, Pennsylvania, 19380.

CONVENER'S CORNER

From the West...

by John Grant

We welcome the following new members into the Society: Mr. and Mrs. Frederic F. Grant of Bellflower, California, Mr. and Mrs. John Gordon Grant of Manhattan Beach, California, and Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth G. Grant of Monterey Park, California.

Upcoming events: (1) Saturday, June 16 - Clans of the Highlands First Pacific Gathering. The Clans of the Highlands is a newly-formed organization. The Grant Society is one of the founding members and has contributed to its first major event. We expect the event to be a great success, but do worry about the effects of the gasoline shortage. We will have a tent and will urge as many surrounding Grants as we can find to attend.

(2) Saturday, June 30 - United Scottish Societies 47th Highland Games and Gathering. This is and has been the biggest gathering in Southern California. We will have a tent as we did last year (our inaugural year).

Ivor Grant and I will be at both of these games in June and we hope James Gordon Grant from Arizona will come over for at least one event, as we have not yet met. Previously, we have only talked on the telephone.

From the East...

by George Grant

Since our last issue of "Craigellachie" many things have happened. John C. Grant of Stone Mountain, Georgia, has volunteered to be our Treasurer, and Shirley Grant Smith of West Chester, Pennsylvania, has offered to become our Membership Chairman. I know you will all cooperate with them as you have with me so that we can be proud of our successful Clan Society.

I have heard from only one person concerning accommodations for the Grandfather Mountain Games. Please let me know as soon as possible if rooms are needed.

The first scholarship winner sponsored by the Society is Steve Pohl who will be attending the piping school at Grandfather Mountain. His wife, Diane, is grateful to us since any improvement will make her life much easier. I might mention that the rest of the tuition is being contributed by their neighbors.

My worst fears were realized upon reading the effort of Seumas Mor an Tuim (of the hill, or the famous freebooter) in the last issue of the newsletter. His portrayal of true fact is questionable, but nevertheless, he is one of us... much to our collective consternation.

See you at the games or in Chattanooga when you are in the area.

Yours aye,

George

GRANTS CONVENE AT JACKSONVILLE AND DUNEDIN

by George Grant

After several days of rain, the day of the Games dawned bright and clear in Dunedin, Florida, March 23. The wind blew a steady 22 knots but our flag holder and tent withstood the elements.

We welcomed several new members back into the Clan in the name of our Chief. Joining with us were Francis M. Grant of Clearwater, Florida, who filled in more Grant history. If you will recall Betty Read's descent from William Grant and her connection with Daniel Boone, then Francis tells the rest of the story. It appears that William arrived in this country with two brothers, Smith Grant who moved to Indiana, and Donald who moved to Ohio. Francis Grant is a descendant of Smith Grant.

We also met Peter Allan Grant who is descended from James Grant, known as James the Drummer who was sent to this country in 1650 as an indentured servant to work in the Saugus, Massachusetts, Iron Works-- the first manufacturing plant in North America. To date, this is the earliest Grant of record in this country.

Ann Grant Miller from Indianapolis and her husband Robert, who have just recently retired, also joined with us. I just hope I look and act as young when I retire.

Charles R. Grant, vacationing in Florida for the winter, from Vermont, also joined with us and will attend the Loon Mountain Games this summer for our Clan. We plan to attend next year. (Cont'd next page)

In Jacksonville, Florida, April 6/7, Elsie and Earl ably assisted by Mary Grant MacDonald, held a buffet and cocktail party for the Grants in the Jacksonville-Orange Park area on Friday night. Everything was lovely and the turnout was great.

On Saturday, our tent was located under an enormous oak tree so we stayed comfortable all day.

During the opening ceremonies, a young man came up to me and introduced himself. He was Noli W. Grant-Matzulis. Welcome to the Society, Noli!

We also met Dr. David Drake and his son. They are pipers and drummers. We have a leg-up on our own band. Haynes Grant, Millerd Grant, and Zane Grant came by and said "Hello." I hope they all join with us. Zane "Pete" is art director for Provident and offered to properly letter the membership certificates for us. As soon as we work out the logistics, we will re-issue these.

Elsie French and Earl Mally were the perfect hosts and the weekend was wonderful.

THE SAVANNAH GAMES: And the Rains Came! by Elsie Grant French

The reception Friday was very nice and many clans were represented. We put up the tent that afternoon because of the weather forecast-- 60% chance of rain for Saturday.

Well, the rain came as predicted. The dancers were moved to the Ramada Inn and the pipers went into the fort for their competitions. Even with the rain, we had the following visitors at the Grant tent: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. Millard Grant, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim MacDonald, all from Jacksonville; Mrs. Diane Pohl, from Orlando; Mr. Ludovick Grant-Alexander, our South Carolina Commissioner, from Charleston; Mrs. Patricia Grant Daniels, from Savannah; and of course, Mr. Earl Mally, from Jacksonville.

It did clear up enough to have the Parade of the Tartans, and I carried the flag for the Clan. Of course, when the rain stopped, the bugs moved in and the men in their kilts were quite miserable. Nevertheless, we all had a good time. When we arrived home on Sunday, I had to dry all the flags and the tent. The neighbors didn't know what was going on. Hal Hal

We won't be able to come to Grandfather Mountain, but hope to see everyone at Charleston this September.

Sincerely, Elsie

DEFLATED EGO

A Scotsman, after many years in America, returned to his native highland village expecting everyone to have missed him. He was resplendent in his Yankee-style clothes and typically ostentatious tie.

When he sauntered in to the local public lounge, he said, "Hello, Angus," waiting for an astonished and admiring reception.

Without a second glance, the innkeeper greeted him, "Hello, Seumas, you surely are dressed up; are you goin' someplace?"

THE GRANTS OF GLENMORISTON

The last issue of CRAIGELLACHIE contained an article on the development of the branch (or cadet) families of the Clan Grant. This edition will feature one of these branch families-- The Grants of Glenmoriston.

Although directly descended from the original Lairds of Freuchie in Strathspey, the Glenmoriston branch of the family has remained independent and self-sustaining for 470 years.

The original barony of Glenmoriston included the glen and environs of the river named Moriston, and the area of its confluence with the famous Loch Ness. Today this scenic and picturesque region is a favorite among tourists who enjoy trout and salmon fishing, and those who simply hope to catch a glimpse of the Loch Ness Monster. Regardless of personal motivation, Glenmoriston is one of the most beautiful and awesome areas in all the Highlands and a visit there will never be forgotten.

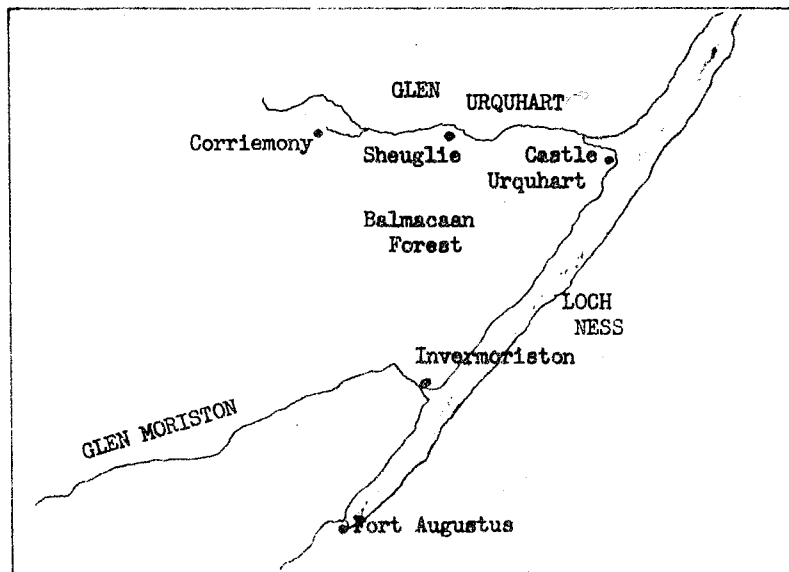

I am deeply indebted to my friend, James Ewen Grant, Laird of Glenmoriston, for furnishing me with a concise history of his family.

- The Editor

Tourist Information may be obtained by writing Glenmoriston Estates, Ltd. Invermoriston, Inverness-shire, Scotland.

According to tradition, a boundary dispute between the Laird of Glenmoriston and his neighbor the MacDonnell of Glogarry was once settled by a wrestling match. Each clan sent its best wrestler to the contest which was held on the property in question. The Grant champion was victorious and the boundary was established to Glenmoriston's advantage. However, the results of the contest vary depending upon whose newspaper one reads.

The Arms of Grant of Glenmoriston
 Matriculated by James Ewen Grant of Glenmoriston, 14th
 Laird, and confirmed by Sir Thomas Innes of Learney,
 K.C.V.O., Lord Lyon King of Arms, January 13, 1956.

Description of the Arms of Glenmoriston

SHIELD: Three gold antique crowns on a red background, separated by a silver fess with an azure-blue sinister bendlet.

ABOVE: A helm befitting his degree with a red mantling doubled gold, and on a red chapeau is placed a rock enflamed proper, accompanied on either side by a branch of Scot's fir.

MOTTO: "Creag Nan Eun"

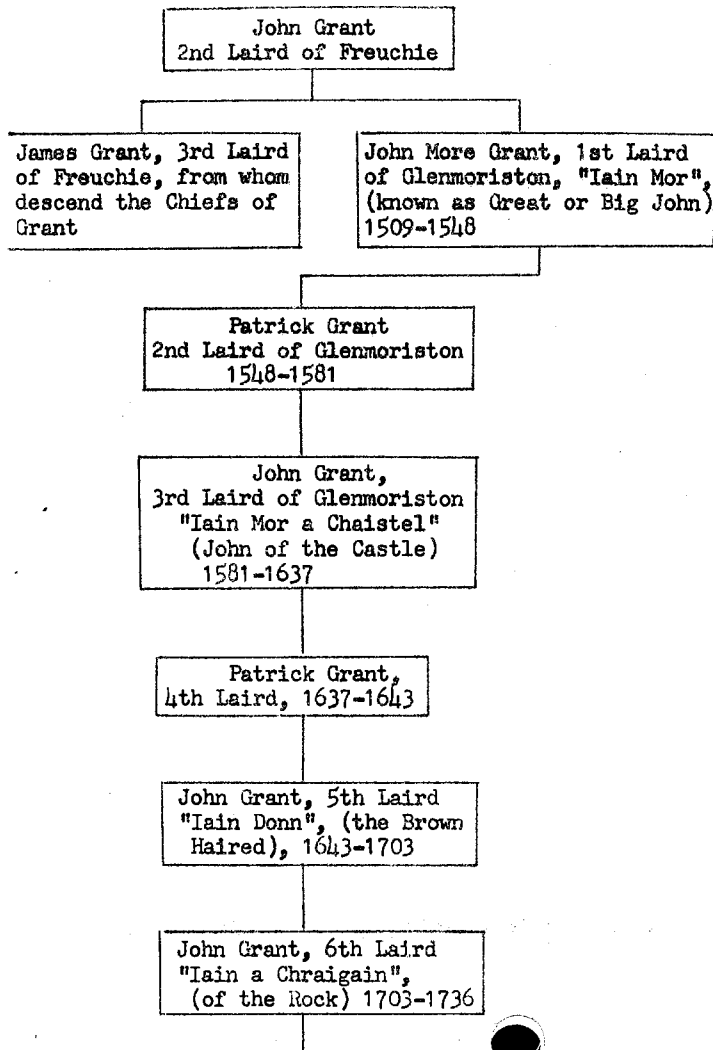

SUPPORTERS: Dexter, a Scottish deerhound; and, Sinister, a raven, both gorged with an antique gold crown.

THE LAIRDS OF GLENMORISTON

On December 8, 1509, John, 2nd Laird of Freuchie, and two of his sons received crown charters for lands in the county of Inverness, from King James IV. The barony of Urquhart was added to the holdings of the Laird of Freuchie, while Corrieemony was awarded to his son, John. At the same time, "Iain Mor" Grant (also known as John Grant of Culcabock in view of other properties he held) received the lands and barony of Glenmoriston for himself and heirs-male. With this charter, Iain Mor became the founder of the family of Glenmoriston.

Today, 470 years later, James Ewen Grant, Baron and 14th Laird of Glenmoriston, is the direct lineal descendant of Iain Mor. Glenmoriston Estate Office, established in 1934, manages much of the original territory granted in the charter of 1509.

According to family histories, Iain Mor and the early Lairds were men of great physical size and strength. The following traditional anecdote furnished by the present Laird documents this idea:

During a visit to the King at Holyrood, Edinburgh, the 3rd Laird was prompted to accept the challenge of an English champion whose particularly insulting remarks were aimed at anyone who was brave enough to answer his dare. "Iain Mor a Chaistel", as the Laird was called, offered the Englishman his hand, and evidently his grip was so powerful, he broke the hand of the bully and ended his bragging-- much to the astonishment and delight of the spectators.

In the latter stages of the 17th century and in the Jacobite Rebellions of 1715 and 1745, the Grants of Glenmoriston supported the Stuart's attempts at restoration, generally aligning themselves with their neighbors, the Glengarry MacDonnells. In these forlorn campaigns, the family suffered much at the hands of the government troops, having their homes

"WHEN TIMES WERE ROTTEN"

A Report by Seumas Mor Grant, Director of the Speyside Institute for Non-Essential Studies (S.I.N.S.)

It has been noted many times that whenever Scots meet, whether at Clan Gatherings, or in one-to-one blathering fests, there exists among them an unique cordiality, unlike anything experienced by any other group of people. In making their inquiry into this phenomenon, the S.I.N.S. researchers found that Scottish inter-relationships were not always characterized by peace and joy, but at times got down-right "kinky".

During the 14th Century, the Scots had just fought a war of independence, and with the exception of a little bad blood between the Highlanders and Lowlanders, things were pretty good. Under King Robert, employment was up, the G.N.P. was growing, and inflation was tolerable, even though King Robert complained about the whale-oil moguls "ripping the people off". Nevertheless, in keeping with the inexorable destiny of man, Robert "bought the farm" in 1329. That is when things began to get rotten.

Robert was succeeded by several flakey kings who did not know from zilch about "kinging". Soon, mischief became the national pastime which developed rapidly into world-class vandalism for those who would train hard. One of the worst was one king's own son, Alexander, Earl of Buchan, known as the "Wolf of Badenoch". He was called Wolf -- not for hanging out at the drive-in, whistling at girls, but for sacking the towns of Elgin and Forres. He also burned the Cathedral of Moray which was definitely a big fat No-No. The Cathedral was not your ordinary-Sunday-Go-To-Meeting Church. To the Clergy it was to bingo what Wimbledon is to tennis.

As a father Alex was no prize winner either. He taught his son the manly art of pillaging at an early age. With other vandals, he plundered Glenisla, sending the local Sheriff to boot-hill with a spear through his spleen. A Latin scholar who witnessed the killing was heard to say, "Sic pilum iactum est," or words to that effect.

After too many years of evil and crime, clan chiefs finally gave this type of entertainment an "R" rating and decided to close the show. They decided to round up all the miscreants, read them their rights, string them up, and if that didn't work,... they would try something drastic. As a consequence, one morning in 1434, Sir Duncan of Freuchie got up, donned his kilt, argyles, and hush-puppies, kissed his lady "good-bye" and said, "I'm off to Craigellachie, and I won't be back until things get better!" From that day on things around Strathspey began to get better.

Addendum: S.I.N.S. realizes that some readers might find this report difficult to believe. They are reminded that the thrust of the investigation was on the Scot's cordiality--- not their veracity. One definitive fact was revealed however. The literal translation of "Sic pilum iactum est", is "Thus the spear is thrown," or as more freely translated by an ancient Roman policeman, "That's why a cop is never around when you need one!"

"Touch Not the Kitty..." by Linda Grant

Whisky Cake *

One cup raisins
One and one-third cup water
One-half cup butter
Three-fourths cup brown sugar
One egg
Two tablespoons whisky (Glen Fiddich or Grant's)
One and one-half cup all-purpose flour
One teaspoon bicarbonate of soda
One-fourth teaspoon salt
One-half teaspoon nutmeg
One tablespoon lemon juice
Two and one-half ounces finely chopped walnuts

Simmer raisins in water for 15 minutes. Cream the butter and sugar in another bowl. Beat in the egg. Stir in the flour, bicarbonate of soda, salt, and nutmeg, with about two tablespoons of liquid from the raisins. Stir in raisins (drained), lemon juice, walnuts, and whisky. Pour into two prepared cake tins and bake for thirty minutes at 350 degrees.

Icing

One-fourth cup butter
One cup confectioners sugar
Two tablespoons lemon juice
One teaspoon whisky

Cream butter and sugar until smooth. Add the lemon and whisky and beat until smooth. Ice when cake cools.

CLAN GRANT SOCIETY NOW "ON COMPUTER"

I am sure most of you have noticed the new address labels on the outside of the newsletter. These were printed from data stored in George Grant's new small business computer. The availability of these labels surely makes the Editor's job much easier. George is to be congratulated for this innovation! "Remember, at Clan Grant, progress is our most important product."

Clan Grant Society

Dear Friends,

Many of you will be receiving this copy of the newsletter for the first time. If so, it is our wish that you consider joining with us to learn of the Grant heritage and become an active participant in Scottish Highland Games and Celebrations in your area. If you have already joined the Society, please pass this application along to a relative or friend named Grant, or a descendant of our Clan so they might join. Send all requests for membership and information to the convener in your region of North America. We are especially interested in recruiting members in Canada, and other areas where the Society has not spread. As you know, we are still a relatively new organization, so please help us in this regard.

Thanks,

George and John
